Pre-Arrival Information

The Home finding process

WHAT HAPPENS ON YOUR HOME SEARCH TRIP?

The following provides you with an outline of the steps involved in a typical Home search process..

1. INITIATION

- › Our international partner, the Human Recourses department or the customer themselves contact us with a request for a home search process
- › A relocation questionnaire and housing requirement form is then typically sent to the customer if this has not already been sent to Inter Relocation by the company managing the relocation process.

2. EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION AND DELEGATION

- › The customer completes and returns the required questionnaires, either to Inter Relocation's consultant or to the company managing the relocation, as appropriate
- › The housing needs are then assessed internally
- › Typically then there would be a call with the customer to discuss the home search process in more detail

3. SCREENING / SCHEDULING

- Inter Relocation's consultant screens the real estate market via a range of real estate agents, collates a list of properties meeting the customer's criteria, and then sends it to the customer [photos and descriptions] via e-mail for pre-selection
- The customer then chooses the properties they would like to view, in cooperation with Inter Relocation's consultant. The consultant then makes appointments with the real estate agencies according to an agreed schedule

4. ON THE ROAD

- Inter Relocation's consultant typically meets the customer at their hotel and accompanies them and their family, where applicable, on the scheduled visits. Inter Relocation's role is to only show properties that conform to the customer's given criteria, even if this means showing fewer properties.

Visits are normally programmed for 1-2 days, depending on the availability of properties and the amount of time authorized for the service.

5. SECURING THE PROPERTY

- Once the customer has short-listed one, or preferably two properties, Inter Relocation informs the landlord of the chosen property that the customer is interested, and confirms the details to the International Account Manager or local HR Department. It's important to note that a property cannot be reserved in Hungary and until a lease contract is signed by both parties, there is no guarantee the property will not be rented to someone else
- Inter Relocation's consultant prepares a draft lease contract that is sent to the landlord for review and then completes a negotiation process between the two parties, with the goal of securing the property with the best possible deal for the tenant/user
- The lease contract is approved by all relevant parties
- Inter Relocation's consultant organizes the signature of the lease

6. ARRIVAL & HANDOVER IN

- Inter Relocation's consultant organizes a meeting where the property is officially handed over
- Inter Relocation's consultant, the landlord and the customer check the utility meter readings, the physical condition of the property and the inventory list and then sign the handover inspection report. Both parties have the right to make any comments on the report.
- Inter Relocation's consultant takes pictures of all rooms of the property, the exterior of the house and the garden, where applicable
- The keys are handed over to the customer.

7. FOLLOW-UP

- Inter Relocation's consultant provides the Landlord, customer, Human Resources Department and the International Account Manager (as required) a copy of the lease contract, and the handover inspection report
- Inter Relocation follows up on the Home search service with a quality evaluation, which is either issued by Inter Relocation or by its international partner

The above describes a typical home search process. Inter Relocation prides itself on providing a personalized service however, which means we always adapt to the requirements of our clients and partners.

HELPING US TO HELP YOU

- Give us as much notice as possible – Inter Relocation doesn't have its own database of properties, but is in contact with the largest and best real estate agencies in Budapest, as well as in other major cities across the country. Collecting and selecting the best properties takes time. The more notice we have of when the home search will take place, the better the selection of properties we will show. We would need a minimum of 3-4 working days to plan a home search visit and ideally two weeks or more
- Give us as much detailed information as possible on your Relocation Questionnaire and Housing Requirement Form – All the elements requested in this form [budget, family size, tenancy details, housing requirements, preferences, etc.] will help us to target the right properties. If we feel that your criteria are not realistic when compared to the Hungarian/Budapest real estate market, we will call you to discuss your expectations and work with you to find a solution
- Provide us with all documents needed for setting up the lease contract as soon as possible – A copy of your passport if you sign the lease contract yourself or official company documents like a specimen of signature, if the company is going to sign the lease contract.
- Second or third choice property – There are times when the deal on the property you have chosen will fall through. There can be many reasons for this, but the most common is that the landlord has several potential tenants wanting the same property and another party makes a more attractive offer. To avoid disappointment, it is always good to have in mind a second or even a third choice property, which we will then immediately attempt to secure for you.
- Let your Relocation Consultant guide you – Remember that he or she has extensive knowledge of the property market and will be able to advise on all aspects of the properties you are viewing. Do not feel pressured into making a decision but at the same time, be aware that the market moves very quickly. If you find a suitable property, we will encourage you to reserve it rapidly, to minimize the risk of losing it.

Orientation

Budapest Sights and History

Budapest is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. That it has developed where it is, is not down to some historical accident. Take a look at Gellért Hill, right next to the River Danube as it flows majestically through the centre of the modern city. It was precisely the combination of the relative ease of crossing the River here and the natural protection the hill offered against invasion that persuaded the earliest settlers it was the ideal place to build a town.

There are plenty of other capital cities built on the banks of a river, and in many cases the river runs through the historic centre. But such a wide and majestic river, as is the Danube at Budapest, is more of a rarity. Even more exceptional is the perfect contrast between the right and left banks. Buda is built upon hills, the feet of two of them - Castle Hill and Gellért Hill - almost stand in the water. Facing it is Pest, lacking the hills of its sister and generally considered to include downtown Budapest.

It's no exaggeration to say that Budapest is one of the finest capital cities in Europe, and also one of the best situated. Among the several places in Hungary that have been afforded the classification of UNESCO World Heritage Site, the first were the Danube panorama [on the Buda side from the Gellért Hotel all along Castle Hill to Margit Bridge, and on the Pest side from the Parliament back down to Petőfi Bridge], and Andrásy út [along its entire length from the centre of Pest to Heroes' Square, where the Millennium Monument stands on the edge of the City Park].

At the time of the Magyar Conquest in 896, the first Hungarian tribes settled in the plains to the east. They migrated to the hills further west later on to take advantage of the greater protection they offered. Buda became the royal seat in the thirteenth century and saw the court's rising status reflected in the building of ever more splendid palaces and the expansion of the town into a flowering middle class town. Pest at this time was a town of merchants and artisans.

1873 was a milestone in the history of Budapest, as it was in this year that the three separate settlements of Pest, Buda and Óbuda (literally Old Buda) were united. The newly coined "Budapest" was named the official capital city of Hungary and underwent an unprecedented growth in size, wealth, and development. But this wasn't just a golden period for the city; it coincided with the millennial celebrations of 1896, marking 1,000 years of the Magyar state.

Budapest, now home to approximately two million inhabitants, would appear countless times on any list of superlatives. Innovation and invention have coloured Hungarian history: the father of the electric railway, Kálmán Kandó, lived here [it should be no surprise, then, that the first underground railway in mainland Europe was also built here], and János Irinyi, one of the early developers of safety matches built a factory here in 1840. Pioneering forces in Hollywood, from legendary actresses to celebrated film makers, listed Budapest as their hometown, while today it is used as a backdrop for many movies. Two of Hungary's most celebrated composers, Béla Bartók and Zoltán Kodály, lived in Budapest, and Nobel Prize-winning Hungarian author Imre Kertész was born here. Pál Erdős, arguably one of the world's most prominent mathematicians, was born here as well.

Hungary's oldest academic library, the University Library, can be found in Budapest, as can Europe's largest synagogue. It is the only capital city in the world where there are more than 100 hot thermal springs. There is no city of comparable size anywhere in the world where visitors can explore dripstone (stalactite) caves in the middle of a residential district. It would also be difficult to find another city where visitors are faced with such a choice in their transport! From buses, trams, and trolleybuses, to trains, metros, cogwheel, funicular, and forest railways, from horse-and-traps, chair-lifts, cars, and boats, to bicycles, and, on Margit Sziget, the "bringóhintó" family cycle cars, Budapest has them all! Let's choose one, and set off along the World Heritage streets.

BUDAPEST'S DISTRICTS AND SURROUNDINGS

As the map illustrates, Budapest has 23 different districts. Districts V and VI are considered the city centre and boast a plethora of offices, banks, restaurants, pubs, shops, and hotels. These districts are also home to the two most famous streets in Budapest, with Andrásy út running through the length of District VI and the legendary Váci utca shopping street in the heart of District V. With these, Districts VII, VIII, IX and inner XIII are considered to be the downtown area. Here you will find nice properties for rent – both traditional and modern houses – as well as a wealth of shops, clubs, restaurants, and theatres. These districts are recommended for those expats who want to enjoy nightlife: be it seeing an opera or grabbing a nightcap. Here you are in the beating heart of the city, surrounded by liveliness. Districts X, outer XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, XIX, XX, XXI, XXIII, and IV are mainly mixed industrial and residential areas. There are lots of housing estates, industrial parks, and factories located here. These districts will put one at relative ease for accessing Budapest Airport.

The Buda districts are quite different from those in the Pest area, as Buda is hilly and green compared to the flat and more developed Pest.

District I and the lower half of District II are considered to be the centre of Buda. Here one can find the Buda Castle, Mammút shopping mall (home to bowling!), and the main road junction and public transport meeting point at Széll Kálmán tér. Districts XII, II, II/A Hűvösvölgy, Adyliget and Hidegkút] and XI and III are mainly residential areas, meaning they are generally quiet and safe. Beautiful homes and renovated apartments are for rent along their leafy side streets and the majority of the international schools and kindergartens are located in this area. These districts are recommended for expats with families and those who want a quieter life!

As Budapest has grown, so too have its suburbs and the surrounding towns and villages. There are many new condominiums and houses being built in these burgeoning settlements. Travelling into Budapest is not difficult, nor does it take too long; however, the rush hours do lengthen the trip. The most popular commuter towns around Budapest are Szentendre, Pilisvörösvár, Üröm, Solymár, Nagykovácsi, Törökbálint, Budaörs, Diósd, Budakeszi, Páty, Telki, Szigetszentmiklós, Dunakeszi and Gödöllő. Even if you do not live in one of them, many are worth a visit!

WHICH AREA TO CHOOSE?

Both Budapest and the surrounding areas are constantly changing – districts and villages, which might not have been very residential some years back have been renovated and become more popular. If you like a particular property, but are unsure about the area or would like to ask further questions about its location, please share your concerns with your relocation consultant, and they will offer you objective advice.

The following points tend to be the most considered when deciding on a particular area:

- Proximity to particular schools, kindergartens or nurseries
- Distance and time it takes to travel to work taking into consideration the traffic problems
- Availability of public transport
- Shopping facilities, hypermarkets, supermarkets, etc.
- Access to motorways and the airport
- Parking
- Is it in an “expatriate area”, with proximity to other expats
- Proximity of parks, cultural activities, restaurants, and sporting facilities

The Property Market

GENERAL INFORMATION

Since 2015 the housing market in Budapest can be considered a landlord's market. A combination of factors has led the market to swing in favour of lessors: an increasing demand for some categories of properties (downtown apartments mainly) and the loss of some properties to short-term rental sites like Airbnb. These factors have pushed rental rates up significantly during 2015-16 and have led to a definite urgency on the part of the tenant to make a decision when choosing a property. Demand for houses remains fairly static and rental rates are far more stable as a consequence. The best family houses will still be in great demand, as they always have been but overall this segment of the market is more tipped in favour of the tenant when it comes to negotiation.

- Unfurnished properties typically contain: Appliances in the kitchen and in the bathrooms and there may be some built-in wardrobes and light fixtures
- Furnished properties typically contain: furniture in all rooms, sometimes with kitchenware, towels and beddings, as well as electrical devices, generally everything one needs to live comfortably. A detailed inventory lists all items in a given property.

In general, if you are planning to stay in Hungary for at least 2 to 3 years, and are looking to rent a larger house, we recommend you consider bringing your own furniture with you, or purchasing it here, as most landlords do not furnish homes of this size. For short-term rentals, or smaller apartments, one can usually find a furnished home either downtown or on the Buda side of the river. If the landlord is required to furnish a property, the rental price will generally be higher.

Your relocation consultant is there to provide expert help with the home search process. They will co-ordinate the real estate agencies' work and represent you during negotiations, the lease contract completion process and the handover of the property from the landlord to you as tenant. Although real estate agencies in Hungary do not charge fees on the tenant side, it is a known fact that their fee is linked to the level of rent secured for the landlord, which means they have no motivation to push for a reduction in the rent on your behalf. A relocation service provider can also handle the complex negotiations and legalities of the lease contract for you.

It is important to note also that it is very uncommon to find exclusive letting by real estate agencies in Hungary. Landlords typically have contracts with several agencies, which can prove problematic as, on occasion, real estate agencies' proposals can overlap. This is just one more reason to employ a professional relocation service provider to manage the home search process and to avoid being shown the same property twice.

BUDAPEST AND ITS SUBURBS

The most typical apartments available on the market in Budapest are to be found in the old style downtown buildings of Pest's Districts V, VI, and VII. These properties generally have high ceilings, classical parquet wooden floors, and vaulted arches. In some of these houses one can find elevators, but as many of the buildings are old, they might only have staircases. In some of the apartments there are still fire places or heating stoves (no longer required for use, as most apartments have been renovated, but still a quaint touch). If one chooses an apartment in a house like this, one must be aware that parking will be an additional cost on top of the rental fee if there is no parking available in the courtyard.

The rental price for these apartments varies hugely, often depending on location, neighbourhood, size of the flat and overall quality and condition of the building. While you might find a studio apartment for as little as €400, you can also find a family sized apartment for €4,000 or more! It is also important to note that there are no houses or apartments with their own gardens or backyards in the central Pest districts. If this is a concern, perhaps because you have children, you will need to look for a property closer to the suburbs or in Buda.

There are also newly built apartment buildings in the downtown area, especially in districts where old houses have been demolished, and new condominium houses built in their place. In these buildings, one can find nice, modern-style apartments, with balconies, new elevators and underground garages. Some of them are also home to beautiful, landscaped gardens in the courtyard.

The Budapest suburbs are remarkable for the variety of property styles on offer. One of the most typical is the newly built Mediterranean style with pastel colours and natural wooden windows and doors. These houses usually have a nice garden, 3-4 bedrooms, 2-3 bathrooms, and a sauna and, if you're lucky, even the all-American touch of a swimming pool!

Another typical style in Buda is the 100 or more year old villa. These are especially found in District XII, as it was here that the Hungarian aristocrats had their summer homes. Here you can also find smaller old-style villas, which used to be hunters' cottages in the 18th century. As you will see, these houses come with history! There are also some old villas in Districts II and III. They have unique, if not very practical, layouts, meaning you can at times feel like you are lost in a labyrinth. Usually these properties have been fully renovated, but in some cases the quality of finishing is not of the highest quality, and one should be very careful when taking a type of house like this.

There are also some very different looking houses in the Buda districts, many of them built to rent and looked on as an investment. Their architectural style is not common, but they do have their own gardens and are comfortable for living. Their layout is very practical; some have swimming-pools, saunas or Jacuzzis in their basements. These newly-built homes are, perhaps, most similar to the places expats will be used to from their native countries.

WHICH PROPERTY TO CHOOSE?

The following are some of the important points that should be considered when choosing a property:

- Your budget
- Extra payments such as utilities (heating, water, electricity) maintenance [gardening, swimming pool, etc.].
- Pets – no animals are allowed without the landlord's permission
- Your obligations as a tenant – these vary enormously from country to country and in Hungary you have lots of specific obligations. For example, no alteration works can be carried out to the property without the landlord's prior written approval
- Upkeep of gardens and swimming-pools– it is the tenant's responsibility to maintain facilities in good condition, which can be time-consuming and/or costly.

The Tenancy Agreement

Understanding your obligations as a tenant

There are two types of lease contracts used in Hungary for renting a property. One is a personal lease agreement where you are the tenant. In this case, all your personal details need to be given to the landlord, and it is possible he or she may ask for a copy of your passport. The other case is if your employer rents the property, and you are the person appointed by the tenant to live in it. In this case, all the company documents must be copied and provided to the landlord, especially a copy of the specimen of signature for the individual who signs the agreement.

Duration of the lease and cancellation conditions:

The minimum lease term according to Hungarian real estate market norms is 1 year. Of course, you can sign for a shorter period, but the rental fee for a short-term tenancy is likely to be 30-50% higher. The longer the duration you or your company can sign, the better the conditions you can achieve in the lease. The lease agreement can be terminated as follows:

- by the mutual agreement of the parties– according to Hungarian rental laws, the minimum notice period is 15 days, but it can be longer
- if the lease agreement runs for an indefinite period, either of the parties will have the right to terminate, giving 1-3 months' written notice. This is called ordinary notice, it can only be used in the case of indefinite term leases, but termination can be enforced for any reason
- by the tenant giving 1-3 months' written notice, upon the termination of the job of the person living in the property. This type of extraordinary notice is under a part of the contract known as the Diplomatic Clause
- in case the premises become uninhabitable or unsuitable for proper use for reasons beyond the parties' control. This is another form of extraordinary notice
- by immediate written notice if either party fails to observe the obligations contained in the lease agreement and settle the breach upon the other party's written notice within an appropriate given deadline. This is also a form of extraordinary notice

The total monthly rent usually does not include additional charges. All utilities and maintenance costs are required to be paid separately by the tenant, unless a deal has been worked out with the landlord and is so specified in the rental agreement.

In some special cases, landlords include some additional extras like a gardening fee in the rent. If the owner of the property is a company, it can invoice all utility and maintenance costs to the tenant without paying the taxes for them; therefore, these fees may be included in the rental fee.

BUILDING CHARGES

A building or common charge exists in Hungary only for apartments or row houses located in a compound. This charge covers the maintenance costs of the building, as well as the common costs. The maintenance costs should always be paid by the landlord, whilst the common cost is the tenant's responsibility.

The common costs include all common charges for the building or the compound, such as heating, lighting and cleaning of the common areas. It also covers the use and upkeep of the elevator and in some buildings, water and sewage services, garbage collection and gardening costs. In condominium houses with wellness areas (swimming pool, saunas, Jacuzzi, squash, fitness room with cardio machines, etc.), you will have to pay for these services according to the size of your property.

SECURITY DEPOSIT

In addition to the payment of the first rental amount after signing your lease agreement, you will be expected to pay a deposit equal to 1-3 months' rent. In Hungary the security deposit does not need to be placed in a time-locked deposit.

The landlord is entitled to deduct from the security deposit any unpaid obligation of the tenant related to the termination of the lease, the debts, if any, including utility fees and any damage to the property and/or the furniture beyond normal wear and tear. The deposit should be reimbursed by the landlord usually within 15-30 days of the expiry of the lease agreement.

The rent can be paid right up to the end of the tenancy, or the security deposit can be considered as the last 1-3 month rent, subject to the agreement of the parties to the lease. If the deposit is used as rent, the tenant is still obliged to compensate all costs arising from improper use or unpaid bills at the end of the lease.

RENT REVIEW

The rent is reviewed according to the existing agreement of the contracting parties, either annually, or after the expiration of the definite term of the initial lease. The calculation used for increasing the rent depends on what currency it was defined and paid in. If the rent was calculated in Hungarian Forints, it is usually reviewed each year and increased by the rate of inflation, depending on prevailing market conditions. If it was calculated in Euro (it does not matter if it is paid in HUF or EUR), parties usually review it only if the lease is prolonged after the definite term. The increase is defined according to the parties' agreement.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY COMMISSION

In Hungary, a commission is paid by the landlord to the real estate agency only for its services in securing the property and contract. In most cases, the negotiation and the lease agreement is completed by the relocation agency and agent. The commission ranges from one month's rent to 12% of the annual rent.

TAXES

Taxes relating to the property and tax on the rental income are paid by the landlord. There is no waste disposal tax, but monthly rubbish collection fees do often apply, and they must be paid by the tenant.

CHECK-IN AND CHECK-OUT INSPECTIONS, INVENTORY

When the lease commences on your home, a handover inspection is carried out. Regardless of whether the property is furnished or not, an inventory is compiled, listing the items left in the property for the use of the tenant.

The handover is carried out by the landlord, the tenant (or the employee of the tenant who is going to live in the property), the real estate agent and the relocation consultant. The handover report, which is a legal document that sets out the condition of the property, the utility meter readings, and the number of keys given - is signed by the landlord and the tenant (or the person who is going to live in the property). The inventory list is checked item by item, as well as the condition of the property. Photos are made and kept on file for use when the property is handed back.

If, after you have moved in to your property, there are issues (such as malfunctioning electrical appliances) which have not been mentioned in the check-in report, you should inform your landlord in writing and add a copy of the letter with the written inspection report (this should be done as soon as possible after the check-in inspection, and no later than a month).

It is the tenant's responsibility to maintain the property in good condition. Any costs that arise caused by normal wear and tear on the property are the responsibility of the landlord.

When you leave your property, the landlord, you, and the relocation agent conduct another check-out inspection.

The two sets of documents and the photos are compared to determine how much of the deposit is returned to the tenant, or how much the tenant is obliged to pay for the costs of repairing any damages arising from improper use, or for unpaid utility bills or other obligations. Proof of expenses must always be provided.

Normal wear and tear is taken into account, but if, for example, you drill holes in the walls to hang pictures, you will need to fill them when you leave. It is extremely important, if you wish to recuperate the security deposit, that you leave the property in the same general condition as you found it in at the handover.

The Arrival Process

HOUSE INSURANCE

The landlord is required to take out full insurance on the premises, including a multi-risk insurance against fire, water and glass damage, while the tenant should take out insurance on his/her personal belongings.

We are happy to help with the insurance process. Your Inter Relocation consultant will provide you with a quotation in English.

For this you will need to make a list of the personal belongings that you wish to insure with their individual values, and the total value. Items you should consider insuring include:

- > Furniture and household goods
- > Electrical appliances (HI-FI, DVD, TV set, camera, computer, tablet)
- > Handmade carpets, paintings
- > Antiques
- > Jewellery

You should return this inventory to your Inter Relocation consultant, who will get the quotation from the insurance broker. If you accept the insurance company's quotation, the policy can be signed. The policy is not always automatically renewed; it has to be prolonged before expiry. Please contact your consultant to help with the extension. The policy can also be terminated at any time by ordinary notice (1-2 months, depending on the insurance company).

In the event of a claim, you will need to contact your insurance agent or Inter Relocation consultant, who will immediately get in touch with your insurance agent. Any receipts, photos, and guarantees, etc. which you may have will be used to determine the extent of the claim.

Please ensure that you immediately declare any damage that occurs during your occupancy to your consultant. The fact that the claim has been registered is vital – whether the work has been done or not – when it comes to reclaiming the deposit paid on the property at the end of the stay.

APPLIANCES AND UTILITIES

Gas heating and hot water: If your apartment has communal central heating, then the cost of heating is included in the common charge. If your property has individual gas heating, you as the tenant (or the person living in the property) are responsible for the general up-keep of the boiler, while the landlord is responsible for the yearly maintenance.

Electricity: Electric voltage is 220-230 V in Hungary and the current alternates at 50 cycles. Wall sockets are compatible with plugs from other European countries, but if you're in doubt, check with your consultant.

Water and sewage: If your apartment does not have its own water utility meter, the water and sewage fee is included in the common cost. If you have a separate meter, the water is invoiced according to consumption and calculated on the basis of the meter reading every three months. The sewage fee is calculated from the same consumption, as there is no separate sewage meter.

Garbage collection: If you have an apartment in a block house or in a compound, the garbage collection fee is included in the common charge. If you have your own house, it is invoiced by the service provider directly monthly.

Chimney sweeping: If your property has a working chimney, you should have it swept once a year, as, more importantly, you will need a certificate proving that the chimney has been swept in the last 12 months, to be sure to be covered by your insurance company in case of fire. The chimney sweeping fee should be covered by the landlord.

AUTHORIZATIONS

There are a few things which you cannot do without requesting special authorization from your landlord.

Internal works or refurbishment: You are obliged to get written permission from your landlord for any internal redecoration you wish to carry out. Decorative work which improves the property is not normally refused, but definitely needs to be discussed first with the landlord. No alteration works are allowed to be carried out without the landlord's written approval.

External works: Any changes which affect the external aspect of the property must be approved by the landlord. In certain cases the landlord will need, in turn, to seek authorization from the local town hall. Be aware that certain buildings have restrictions about the installation of the satellite dishes, so if this is a priority for you, it should be discussed with your Inter Relocation consultant prior to the visit. Please also remember that any costs for dismantling the dish are borne by the tenant on departure from the property.

Gardens: Any major changes you wish to make to the garden, such as cutting down trees, moving bushes, landscaping, etc., should be discussed beforehand with your landlord.

Healthcare

Medical care in Hungary

The Hungarian healthcare system offers a wide range of facilities, both out and in-patient, public and private, from which to choose. Budapest is particularly rich in the choices on offer. For more information regarding the Hungarian Social Security System, please see page 42.

VACCINATIONS

Certain vaccinations are required for Hungarian residents, while others are merely recommended. The following vaccinations are compulsory for enrolment in kindergartens and schools, and the corresponding vaccination proof should be brought with you:

HepB vaccine is currently given to infants of HbsAg positive mothers, and to mothers with unknown HbsAg status. Administered in 3 doses, starting within 12 hours post-partum (in case of HbsAg positive mother simultaneously with HB immunoglobulin), the second dose is given 1 month later, and third dose follows 6 months after first.

DTaP, IPV and Hib are given as the pentavalent combination vaccine.

DTaP and IPV are given as a combined vaccine.

A full course of HepB vaccination has been mandatory since 1999 at 14 years of age, and for first year students in schools of higher education for those not previously vaccinated. The pentavalent combination vaccine against diphtheria tetanus, pertussis, polio and Hib was introduced to the national vaccination schedule in 2006, and replaced previous forms of vaccination for diphtheria, tetanus, whole-cell pertussis, Hib, and live oral polio vaccines.

- D > Diphtheria vaccine (normal dose)*
- d > Low dose diphtheria vaccine (booster dose)*

Motoring In Hungary

PARKING PERMITS

Parking permits are issued by each individual local council and are only applicable in downtown areas where a charge is levied to park during the day. You need to register your car at the local council office and it is important to note that there can be quite stringent restrictions on qualification for a parking permit. In some districts it is enough to own the vehicle and to have a registered Hungarian address; in others, you must own the home and the vehicle to qualify for a permit.

The necessary documents may include:

- Valid residence permit or Hungarian Registration Card
- Address card
- Certificate of registration for the vehicle
- Purchase contract for the property.

DRIVING LICENCE

EU licence requirements

- EU citizens holding the modern EU driving licence may continue to drive on this licence while residing in Hungary. If that licence expires the holder can either apply for an extension in their home country or apply for Hungarian licence

NON-EU LICENCE REQUIREMENTS

- A Non-EU holding an international driving licence may drive in Hungary for one year from their first day of legal residence, after which time they must exchange the licence for a Hungarian one
- If the country in which the current licence was issued is not a signatory of the United Nations Vienna Convention on Road Traffic, both a written and practical driving test may be necessary

ROAD TAX

- Charged annually on all Hungarian-registered vehicles and according to the power of the engine of your car

RENTING A CAR

Car rental is very popular in Hungary.

- Cars are often delivered and collected by the rental companies
- A deposit and a daily charge for the car is required
- Cars can also be rented on a long-term basis or leased through specialist leasing companies or participating dealers

IMPORTING A CAR

If importing a car, various restrictions apply, whether the car is being imported from inside or outside the EU. There is a registration tax to be paid on all imports, VAT and customs duty may be payable on imports from outside the EU, a technical inspection must be passed and the owner must have a registered Hungarian address and residence permit.

CAR INSPECTION

All cars more than three years old are subject to a compulsory technical test which is renewable every two years.

CAR SEATS FOR CHILDREN

Children under the age of twelve should be seated in the back of the car, using an approved car seat.

DRINK DRIVING

Hungary basically follows a zero tolerance approach to drink driving. If you have had any alcohol to drink, you cannot drive until it's certain the alcohol has left your system. Forget about popping in to the pub on the way home from work for a swift half with the boys. And think twice when you get into the car in the morning following a late night out. Will all that alcohol have cleared your system yet?

DRIVING IN HUNGARY

The following documents must be with you when driving in Hungary:

- Driving licence
- Car registration papers
- Proof of insurance
- Accident report

The following must be kept in the car:

- First aid kit
- Luminous jacket
- Warning triangle
- Spare wheel
- Toolbox
- Replacement lamp bulbs
- Jack
- Wrench

ROAD TOLLS IN HUNGARY

The road toll system in Hungary is quite complicated and it's a good idea to know when you need to pay a toll and when you do not. An E-Vignette must be purchased for any vehicle, whether on Hungarian or foreign plates to allow the car to legally use the motorway network. A list of the roads for which an E-Vignette are currently required, and a list of motorways that remain toll-free can be found here: <http://toll-charge.hu/articles/article/toll-free-sections>

The E-Vignette, otherwise known as a motorway or highway sticker [it used to be a physical sticker that you would attach to your windscreen] is available at most major petrol stations on the access roads to the motorway network and they can also be purchased online via most Hungarian banks' internet banking sites.

The current penalty for failing to have a valid E-Vignette when driving on the motorway network is 14,875 HUF. This amount rises to a hefty 59,500 HUF if the penalty is not paid within 30 days of issue. Details of this can be found here: <http://www.toll-charge.hu/Toll-tariffs/Charges/>. It is important to note that it is the car owner's responsibility to retain proof that they paid the toll for a given period. If you pay your toll at a petrol station then it is highly recommended that you file the receipt you get for a calendar year, just in case the National Toll Payment Services company questions whether you were covered on a certain day.

Banking in Hungary

To open an account, you will generally need to show your passport and proof of residence. Should you need to open an account prior to your arrival in Hungary, Inter Relocation will put you in contact with certain banks that are willing to open an account without an address.

As soon as you open your account, you will receive the account number. Your bank card will be delivered to your postal address 1-2 weeks later. The pin-code for the card will be sent in a separate letter, around the same time. Upon receiving both, you will need to activate the card.

The official currency in Hungary is the Hungarian Forint, the symbol for which is either shown as HUF or Ft.

Pets

BRINGING ANIMALS TO HUNGARY

An EU citizen arriving in Hungary must provide a pet passport. The conditions for issuing a pet passport are as follows:

- Your pet must have a report detailing its vaccination against rabies, showing it has been inoculated properly and is up to date
- The pet must have either a tattoo or a microchip for identification purposes. From 2012, only microchip identification will be accepted
- A request for a pet passport should come from the vet that inoculates the animal
- The validity of the pet passport must match that of the current vaccination against rabies. A new passport should be issued after each vaccination
- If the microchip fitted to your animal is not 117784 standard compliant, you will also need to provide the equipment necessary for reading the identification number

For a non-EU citizen bringing in a pet from outside the EU, the owner must show a veterinary health certificate, which proves that the animal meets all the health requirements determined by EU law. Regardless of this, the animal may also be examined by a vet.

24-HOUR PHARMACIES

Pharmacies (Gyógyszertár or Patika in Hungarian) are indicated with a green cross. Every district has at least 1 pharmacy open 24-hours a day, mostly at major road junctions. This link, in Hungarian only, lists the pharmacies that are on call at night on a given day: www.hazipatika.com/cimtar/budapesti_ugyeletes_gyogyszertarak?id=38. Medical prescriptions are not accepted anywhere except pharmacies, although many common basic medicines, such as aspirin, can be bought without a prescription.

DOCTORS

You are free to choose your own general practitioner under the public healthcare system. A doctor is assigned to the area where you live, but if you have your own choice, or have found a medical centre that speaks your native language, you can change your doctor. Office hours are normally between 8.00-12.00 and 16.00-20.00. If you become ill at the weekend, there is always an on-duty medical service available in every district. You can enquire at the non-stop pharmacies for more information.

About Healthcare

THE HUNGARIAN SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM

The Hungarian healthcare system is largely free of charge for anyone who can provide a Hungarian social insurance number and card [TAJ szám, TAJ kártya] or who holds a valid EU International Health Card [EHIC]. Medical services in Hungary are substantially financed by the state budget, which takes a monthly contribution from every locally contracted employee's salary, and no payment is claimed for the actual treatment. With a valid Hungarian social security account, you are entitled to full medical care, excluding prescription charges.

HEALTHCARE FOR EU CITIZENS

EU citizens who are not paid a salary locally but who possess an EHIC are also treated free of charge to an extent. Only those treatments are free of charge, which are considered urgent and necessary by a given doctor. Any additional hospital care or the cost of non-urgent care would need to be settled personally by the patient. When using the EHIC, reimbursement of the cost of treatment varies from country to country, depending on the agreement between Hungary and the given country. Usually the two health insurance authorities settle the re-invoicing of the cost. Before arrival, please investigate this with your own state health authority.

With the EHIC only urgent and necessary treatments are provided free of charge. Just as in other countries, you are entitled to hold private medical insurance as well and this is certainly something we recommend for anyone who is not fully covered by the state healthcare system. Holding a private medical insurance policy does not exclude you from having to contribute to the state system, so the monthly contributions will still be taken from your monthly salary.

Should your employment be terminated for any reason, then after 46 days of the termination, you need to take out a private contract with the Hungarian state healthcare authority. The fee payable could be as little as 7,050 HUF per month but could be significantly higher, depending on the level of social security contributions you have paid during the current financial year to date.

For a family member of an EU citizen who has been living in Hungary for a year [this is counted from the issuing date of the address card] it is mandatory to make a private contract with the state health authority. The fee payable depends on the given year's fees when you have to make this contract. For children under the age of 18 the health care system is free of charge, though parents will need to apply for a Hungarian social security card for any child, once they have obtained a Hungarian Registration and an address card. A baby born in Hungary automatically receives the Hungarian social security card, once the registration at the immigration office has been completed. The Hungarian social security card is delivered to the address that has been provided for the registration card request.

HEALTHCARE FOR NON-EU CITIZENS

A Non-EU citizen is entitled to take any medical care free of charge in case he or she is on Hungarian payroll and an employee of a Hungarian company, just like their Hungarian and EU colleagues.

An employee's family members in any case need to present proof of comprehensive health insurance for their residence permit application. This is important as family members of non-EU employees on local payroll are not covered by the employee's Hungarian state social security payments.

It is possible for non-EU family members to access the state healthcare system via a private contract with the health authority. The fee payable is calculated as follows: for children under the age of 18, 30% of that given year's gross minimum monthly wage needs to be paid (by yellow postal check) per month. For applicants over the age of 18, the percentage is higher, at 50% of the gross minimum wage. Once the first payment is made, the individual has the right to urgent and necessary treatment only. Full access to the system is only given after 7 months' payments have been made. An applicant may gain full access to the system immediately but then they must pay in 7 months' contributions immediately. As a non-EU resident it's not compulsory to contract with the Hungarian state healthcare system, but it certainly is compulsory to hold private health insurance that would cover any possible eventualities.

PRIVATE HEALTHCARE

There are plenty of private clinics and healthcare options for anyone looking to be treated in English or another foreign language and in more comfortable surroundings than one might find in a typical state hospital or clinic in Hungary. Payment options include already holding an international insurance policy that one of the private clinics accepts or it is also possible to take out a local private policy with one of the clinics. This would give coverage up to a certain point but it's important to note that most of the private clinics don't include in-patient care or more complex diagnosis such as CT and MRI and if the patient doesn't hold state health insurance or a comprehensive international health insurance policy. In general it's best to talk to at least one private clinic and get a feel for what they do and do not cover.

Settling In

When you order a package, you will have to schedule an appointment with the technicians to set it up in your home. You may just get a network cable and co-axial cable for TV and internet access, or the package may come with a set-top box and remote control. The package should work straight away; you will receive an invoice from the service provider each month which, depending on your package, may include the basic monthly fixed fee and then consumption on top of that. You can pay in cash or by credit card at post offices, or make a bank transfer to the provider's account.

Telephone & Internet

There are various types of phone and Internet service available on contract with a range of Hungarian service providers. Combined TV, internet and phone packages are available via cable and telephone operators and the network coverage is generally very good. Prices depend on the type of service package, but expect around €20-50 a month, depending on the TV channels and speed of internet chosen.

The largest providers of telephone and Internet services in Hungary today are Telekom, Vodafone, Telenor, UPC, Invitel, and Digi. Most providers have English speaking staff at major outlets, though some are better than others in this respect. Having a relocation service provider like Inter Relocation is still pretty much essential though. The websites for the major providers are as follows:

Telecom

www.telekom.hu/lakossagi/english

Vodafone

www.vodafone.hu/english

Telenor

www.telenor.hu/en

UPC

www.upc.hu [Hungarian only]

Invitel

www.invitel.hu/english

DIGI

www.digi.hu [Hungarian only]

Electricity

The electricity company will most likely either be ELMŰ (Elektromos Muvek Nyrt.) www.elmu.hu/#!/residential-customers/billing-payment/payment-methods or EON www.eon-hungaria.com/en/, depending on which part of the country you are living in.

You will receive an invoice from them every month which will include the monthly consumption calculated according to the meter reading, or an estimated fee according to the previous year's consumption. If you prefer to pay for what you consume it is possible to dictate your own monthly meter reading online, though the websites are currently only available in Hungarian. Payment can be made in cash at the post office, or done by bank transfer. It is also possible to pay by direct debit. For this you should sign a contract with the service provider that the monthly amount of your invoice can be automatically debited from your account. Inter Relocation is happy to assist you with filling out the forms.

Gas

Major gas companies in Hungary:

- DDGÁZ - Fejér, Tolna, Baranya counties

- ÉGÁZ-DÉGÁZ Bács-Kiskun, Csongrád, Békés, Győr-Moson-Sopron, Komárom-Esztergom, Veszprém, Vas counties

- > TIGÁZ-DSO – Bács-Kiskun, Borsod-Abaúj-Zemplén, Csongrád, Fejér, Hajdú-Bihar, Heves, Jász-Nagykun-Szolnok, Komárom-Esztergom, Nógrád, Pest Szabolcs-Szatmár-Bereg counties
www.tigaz.hu

He/she is normally available for an appointment by prior arrangement. This is a relationship that is definitely worth investing in. The house manager often knows many people in the area, therefore could be a good source of local plumbers, electricians etc. He/she could be helpful when it comes to taking in deliveries when you are away, letting people in to read the electricity or gas meters and generally keeping an eye on security. It might be prudent to give a small Christmas gift to thank them for any extra help they give you.

Water and sewage

The water supplier in Budapest is Fővárosi Vízművek Zrt. www.vizmuvek.hu/en, while the sewage supplier is Fővárosi Csatornázási Művek Zrt. www.fcsm.hu/en/. Outside of the capital, many different companies providing water and sewage services. Generally, the payment methods are as above, but as there are many companies, we are happy to find out any information regarding the service contract and the payment in your area.

Garbage collection

Many towns in Hungary, and lots of districts in Budapest, ask their residents to sort their trash into separate categories (plastic, white glass, coloured glass, metal, paper, etc.) and provide different coloured bins for the purpose. The frequency of rubbish collection varies from one location to another. In many areas of Budapest there is a collection twice a week, in the suburbs it tends to be once a week.

House Manager

The house manager's role – if you have one – is to take care of the apartment building, to clean or arrange the cleaning of the communal areas, and to liaise with the management company of the building when problems arise.

Floor numbers and entry doors in buildings

Many apartment buildings in Hungary have main doors which require a code to be tapped-in on a keyboard near the door in order to open them. If you do not know the entry code, there is usually a list of names corresponding to each apartment.

In older buildings, elevators may not have automatic doors. Make sure that you close the door (sometimes both the inner and outer doors) when entering or exiting; otherwise the lift will not function.

As you walk into the block, you are on the földszint – the ground floor level. The first floor in Hungary is thus what is described in some other countries as the second floor, which can lead to confusion. Things can get really confusing when there is also a “magasföldszint”, an upper ground floor between the actual ground floor and the first floor.

Safety in your New Home

When first arriving in Budapest, many expatriates notice how many ground floor apartments have wrought iron bars on the windows and how security bars or gates on apartment doors are commonplace. Crime in Hungary on the whole is extremely low, especially violent crime, but in what is still a relatively poor country, burglary is relatively common so it's wise to ensure that the home you rent in Budapest is reasonably secure.

Prevention is certainly better than cure so if your apartment has security measures in place, use them every time you leave the property empty, even for a few hours. A security bar or gate makes breaking and entering that much harder, as does ensuring any windows that are accessible are locked or shuttered, if possible. Most houses have a good alarm system fitted, as do many apartments and it is relatively inexpensive and very wise to consider having a contract with one of the professional security companies like Multialarm, RIMI Security, Pro-Sec, etc.]. These are very professional organisations and have patrols with armed, off-duty policemen who can make arrests and liaise with the authorities in Hungarian for you.

Some insurance companies will only provide household contents cover for a property if it either has bars on the windows or shutters fitted, or an alarm system connected to the police or a security firm.

The post office provides a service which forwards your mail even for short period [1 month] while you are on holiday for example. It costs about HUF 1600 a month within Hungary, and HUF 7865 abroad.

It is always a good idea to leave a set of keys with someone you trust or with the concierge of your apartment block if you go away, even for the weekend, in case of emergencies.

- Advise your insurance broker of the break-in by phone and then by email or registered letter (whichever is required according to the policy) within two working days. This letter needs to include your name and address, policy number, the date you discovered the theft, a list of what you think has been stolen and a copy of any statement given to the police, or a copy of a receipt if you have made a verbal complaint.

Household insurance cover

Your landlord will generally be contractually bound to insure the property you rent but this will not include the household goods you bring with you. If you move your household goods to Hungary, the insurance covers on those goods ends on the day you sign that you have received them from the movers. Household goods contents insurance is relatively cheap in Hungary and certainly worth considering. Contact your Inter Relocation for assistance with finding a good insurance policy.

What to do in the event of theft?

- Call the police or universal emergency number [112]. They should come out to investigate and at least examine the break in and dust for finger prints. They will ask you to make a formal statement listing all missing items

Clubs and Associations Meeting People

If, as an accompanying spouse, you have chosen not to take up full time paid employment whilst in Hungary, or if for any reason this is not an option, there are many alternatives open to you. At first, however, we recommend that you take time to settle in and discover your new surroundings. There is an enormous amount to visit and explore.

Many associations exist which could be of interest, either as a source of information or possibly as an opening for volunteer work. These groups are an excellent way to meet people, find out more about your new home from experienced expatriates and locals and to learn new skills. Here are just a few:

IWCA – INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB ASSOCIATION

The International Women's Club Association of Budapest (IWCA) is a non-profit, charitable organization founded in 1981 by a group of enterprising women from the international and diplomatic communities in Budapest. Today, the Association has more than 230 members representing more than 35 nationalities.

The main purpose of the organization is to sponsor and support charitable activities related to health care and education in Hungary, and especially to support hospitals and children suffering from disease or disability. In addition, the organization promotes the development of good relationships between women of the international community and the host country in order to increase their knowledge of the people and the culture of Hungary. The organization also supports the Club, which provides opportunities for women in the international community to meet and engage in social and cultural activities. The Club organizes meetings and programs which fulfil the goals and principles of the Association and cooperates with other organizations sharing similar goals, whenever possible.

The IWCA supports the Mother Theresa Soup Kitchen, the Salvation Army, orphanages, hospitals, family assistance centres and a variety of other organizations in need.

For more information about the organization, contact the IWCA Office at Hajós utca 5. H-1065 Budapest. Email: iwcchair@gmail.com or go to www.iwcbudapest.hu/.

BWA - THE BRITISH WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

They meet on the last Friday of every month between 10 and noon at The British Embassy. Other social events are arranged on a regular basis such as coffee mornings, nights out and children's picnics.

Any person who holds a British passport or has a spouse who holds a UK passport is eligible for membership.

For more information, please contact bwahungary@hotmail.com or go to www.bwabudapest.com.

PWA - THE PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The Professional Women's Association of Budapest works to expand the advancement of women in diverse professions through providing career advancement capabilities, work/life strategies, resource sharing and networking opportunities. This is an international organization working to strengthen the professional women's community in Hungary. The PWA can be reached at hajni.denes@gmail.com or by going to www.pwa.hu/our-mission/

NAWA – THE NORTH AMERICAN WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The North American Women's Association (NAWA) of Budapest is dedicated to fostering a sense of community to North Americans and to other members of the Expat community from all over the world who would like to communicate in English. NAWA offers a forum for all members to participate with the local community through events and charitable activities and the opportunity to interact, embrace and learn from the many cultures represented by its membership.

By providing opportunities to connect with others, the association aims to encourage friendship and help members make the most of their stay in Hungary.

Budapest offers innumerable opportunities to engage body and mind. NAWA is here to enrich those experiences.

For more information visit their website www.nawabudapest.com or email nawamembership@gmail.com.

AMCHAM - THE AMERICAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN HUNGARY

The American Chamber of Commerce in Hungary (AmCham Hungary) was established in November 1989 as the very first AmCham in Central Europe, by 32 American companies. Today, it has grown to become the largest AmCham in the region, with approximately 600 members, representing 22 different countries, more than 60% of the total foreign direct investment in Hungary and more than 50% of Hungary's annual total exports. AmCham Hungary has also become one of the most respected and influential non-profit, non-political organizations in Hungary, representing not only the interests of American investors in Hungary, but those of the entire international and Hungarian business community.

The mission of AmCham Hungary is “to be the leading representative for US and international business in Hungary, and to promote the global competitiveness of the country.” AmCham Hungary achieves this mission by creating and maintaining relations between the business community and government agencies in Hungary. Internationally, AmCham Hungary also draws strength from working closely with the European Council of American Chambers of Commerce (ECACC), which represents more than 14,000 companies and $300 billion in investment in Europe and the USA, as well as major policy makers from both the United States and the European Union.

BUDAPEST HIKERS

Budapest Hikers is about much more than hiking. They are a vibrant International community that encourage their members to socialize with each other, go outside and be active.

They provide a range of activities and their main goal is to get people outdoors and into the habit of enjoying the natural environment around us. The modern lifestyle of working in an office, sitting in a classroom or being sat in front of a computer all day isn't healthy. Such an attitude can lead to people being lazy and missing out on the opportunities presented by being outside and around others. Their community provides people with an easy way to break out of these habits and form new, healthy ones in the Hungarian countryside.

They organize hikes and camping events to share our passion with their members.

Their camping events occur several times a year and consist of a range of outdoor activities and an overnight stay. There are plenty of opportunities to be active at our camps as we offer hikes, fun & games, swimming and more.

For more information visit their website: <https://budapesthikers.com> or their Facebook page: www.facebook.com/budapesthikers

SHOPS, MARKETS AND SUPERMARKETS

This is not an exhaustive list, but gives an idea of where to shop and what you may expect to find. Many large supermarkets stock international products to some degree or other, especially Tesco and Auchan. The quality and range of goods available is improving all the time, but you may find sometimes that fresh produce is not up to standard.

The street and indoor markets rely more heavily on seasonal produce so you can see what is in season by looking at what is on sale in abundance. This can be quite refreshing after the experience in western supermarkets where everything is available all year round.

At first food shopping in Hungary can be a daunting experience if you cannot understand what is written on the labels and you cannot find what you are looking for. One tip is the recently set up online shopping site from Tesco. Whilst our intention is not to encourage expatriates only to shop at a major UK supermarket, the entire site is in English, which allows a new arrival to find products in English, identify them by picture and then even if they don't actually wish to buy online from Tesco or even go to Tesco to buy said products, it is possible at least to search in English and find what one is looking for. We hope that this guide also serves to make shopping as a new arrival a little easier.

FOOD SHOPS

Budapest is awash with smaller general shops, ranging from Tesco Express, CBA and Spar to the ubiquitous "Non-Stop" or ABC. These little corner shops will generally be pokey, not up to the same standards of organisation and with a fairly narrow selection but just as at home, they tend to be open when nothing else is and are ideal for that forgotten item from the weekly shop or for daily purchases like bread.

MARKET HALLS

Budapest has many market halls. These are the most interesting ones: Vásárcsarnok on Fővám tér, district V. [also known as the Great or Grand Market Hall]

Originally the city's main wholesale market, the Vásárcsarnok was opened in 1897, along with the other four, and has a beautiful Zsolnay porcelain-tiled roof. The covered market has three floors. On the ground floor is all the fresh produce – fruit, vegetables, meat, cheese and bread. On the upper floor you'll find Hungarian crafts and some small eateries. The lower ground floor focuses mainly on fish and seafood.

Fehérvári út Market

1117 Budapest, Kőrösi J. u. 7-9.

Next to Allee Shopping Center. Has a wide range of food, a few pickled vegetable stalls can still be found at the back.

Hunyadi tér Market [District VI.]

Sells vegetables, pickles, and smoked meats. There is also a flea market on Hunyadi tér.

Rákóczi tér Market Hall [District VIII.]

1084 Budapest, Rákóczi tér 7.

Located in a beautiful national monument building and was built in the 1890s. Sells fruit and vegetables, meat and dairy products and fish.

Belvárosi Market on Hold utca (District V.)

1054 Budapest,

Hold u. 13.

Recently renovated, this market sells a wide range of produce and also features a Chef's Row on the upper floor with some great restaurants opening street food outlets.

Lehel tér (District XIII.)

1134 Budapest, Lehel tér

Next to Lehel tér on Váci út, this market re-opened several years ago in a building built in the shape of cruise liner.

Fény Utcai Piac (District II)

1024 Budapest, Lövőház u. 12.

Another daily market found at the back of the Mammot Shopping Centre near Széll Kálmán tér on the corner of Fény utca and Retek utca. Sells fruit, vegetables, meat, speciality cheeses as well as flowers and herbs.

Kolosa Téri Piac (District III)

1036 Budapest, Kolosa tér 2.

This is a small market with a canvas roof in the middle of a courtyard. Stallholders mainly sell fruit and vegetable with individual shops in the surrounding buildings. There is a baker, a flower shop, a shoe shop as well as clothes shops and a snack bar.

Flórián tér (District III.)

1033 Budapest, Flórián tér 6.

Found behind the Flórián tér shopping centre on Vörösvári út, this market sells fruit, vegetables, meat, cheese and bread and is open daily.

STREET MARKETS

These usually take place on Saturday mornings. Keep your eyes open for them.

Vörösvári út (District III)

1033 Budapest,

Vörösvári út 88-96.

[In front of the Szent Margit Clinic]

Sells clothes, household goods, fruit and vegetables.

Árpád Fejedelem:

1023 Budapest, Árpád fejedelem útja 8.

A large fruit and vegetable market, though there are also bread, household goods, and a few craft stalls.

SUPERMARKETS

Hungary plays host to two major hypermarket chains, Auchan and Tesco. Both companies have several extremely large and in the case of Tesco some smaller, city centre outlets.

Tesco

This British company has been operating in Hungary since the late 90s. Two of Budapest's Tesco Hypermarkets were at one point the company's largest stores in the world. Many of their shops including the flagship Budaörs hypermarket have an aisle of foreign-sourced goods, ranging from British favourites to specialist foods from Italy, Greece, South-East Asia and so on.

Auchan

Auchan has also been around in Hungary for more than ten years. Their hypermarkets also tend to be very large and stock everything from white goods to car tyres, in addition to the standard supermarket fare. You will also find an international and a bio food section at most branches of Auchan.

Another popular supermarket is Spar, which has plenty of supermarkets both in downtown and mall-based locations. Spar tends towards good quality produce but does not have the expat produce you might more readily find at Tesco or Auchan.

Transport

DRIVING & PUBLIC TRANSPORT

Driving a car in Budapest can be a challenge, especially during peak periods. Long traffic jams are common, and the city centre and main roads leading to the surroundings regularly grind to a halt.

Parking places can be difficult to find. There is limited street parking, though in the last few years more and more underground garages and multi-storey car parks have opened in office buildings, shopping malls and the like. Budapest is divided into parking zones, with different fees applicable in each. Parking tickets must be purchased Monday through Friday 8am to 6pm. You may park free of charge on Saturdays, Sundays and on national holidays. Sometimes when a public holiday falls on a Thursday, the Friday is also given as a holiday but then that day is clawed back by making a nearby Saturday a working day. Be aware of such days as parking is not free of charge when a Saturday is deemed a working day.

Parking tickets are obtained from street vending machines, and must be displayed on the dashboard, so that it is visible and legible from the outside. It is also possible to register your parking via text message to telephone numbers on the vending machines but be careful, you must remember to cancel the parking period or you risk being charged for the whole day. Mobile providers also charge an admin fee for the service.

The minimum parking period is 15 minutes. Some zones do not allow a stay of longer than 2-3 hours. In outlying districts parking is often free of charge.

Budapest takes pride in its very well-developed public transportation network. Services are relatively cheap, so you should consider using a bus, tram, trolley bus or metro for getting around the city.

A route finder will help you to find your way in Budapest and Hungary on www.utvonalterv.hu. A street-finder can help to find the place where you want to go at www.utcakereso.hu and of course Google Maps works very well in Budapest. Bus and rail time-tables are available at www.elvira.hu, and www.bkv.hu/en/.

METRO

The Budapest Metro is the capital's subway system. It currently consists of four lines, each with its own number and colour. There are three crossings: at Deák tér line M1 crosses M2 and M3, at Kálvin tér M4 crosses M3 and at Keleti pályaudvar M4 crosses M2.

Tickets must be validated at the entrance, before taking the escalator, using the orange-coloured stamping machines, and should be kept until you leave the metro. At validation, the date and time is printed on tickets, along with information about where you boarded.

Tickets are checked manually by inspectors, who often set up inspection points at stations near the escalators, but they may inspect tickets anywhere in the metro area, including on moving trains. Tickets or passes must be handed over to them on request. They wear blue or red armbands with a gold inscription, but they may only put on the armband immediately before conducting the actual inspection.

None of the stations of metro lines M2 (red) or M3 (blue) has yet been made accessible for wheelchair users or parents with prams, even recently renovated stations. On line M1 (also known as the Millennium Underground or Yellow Metro) there are only three stations suitable for use by wheelchair users. All stations on Line M4 are accessible from the street level by lift.

There are various types of ticket and travel pass available, with discounts on passes for full-time students and tickets specifically for the metro i.e. a short section ticket for up to three stops and a transfer ticket that allows you to take a journey that includes one transfer from one metro line to another.

With the exception of the section ticket, which is valid for 30 minutes, all tickets are valid for 60 minutes, within Budapest. One-day tickets, tourist tickets (for 3 days), seven-day travel cards, fortnight, 30-day and yearly passes can be bought too, as well as discounted books containing 10 tickets. A Budapest Card is often recommended for tourists, enabling free public transport in Budapest, but it is only worthwhile if one intends to visit lots of sights and visit museums or galleries within a two or three-day period

WORKING HOURS AND FREQUENCY

The Metro starts around 4.30am and the last train leaves the terminus around 11.30pm (differs from line to line). Rush hours are between 6 and 8am and between 2 and 5pm on workdays, when trains leave every two or three minutes. Early morning and night trains leave every 10 or 15 minutes. On Christmas Eve, trains usually run only until about 3pm, and there may be other breaks in normal service on other holidays (these are advertised beforehand). The service is usually extended on New Year's Eve, to help party-goers get home.

BUSES

Although many of the main roads in the city centre have special lanes reserved for Budapest's buses, they inevitably do sometimes get caught up in the traffic congestion. Buses may not always be the best solution for the journey to work at peak hours, but they are a wonderful way of getting to know the city.

The regular public transport ticket is valid on buses. You'll need a new ticket every time you change buses. Buses run from 4am and the last bus usually leaves the terminal around 10.30pm. A few lines keep running during the night. Timetables are given at bus stops.

TICKETS AND PASSES

Tickets are valid on the entire length of bus, tram, trolley bus lines, metro lines, the Millennium Underground, and the cogwheel railway but are only valid on the suburban railway (HÉV) lines within the administrative boundary of Budapest.

Passes are valid on the entire length of tram, trolley bus and metro lines, the Millennium underground, the cogwheel railway, but are only valid to the administrative city boundary on HÉV and bus lines.

TAXIS

If you are not familiar with the city, taxis can be a relatively good value and easy way to get around the city. Taxis can use bus lanes, which can make journeys quicker during busier times but we still recommend considering using public transport for certain journeys.

In September 2013 a universal standard for quality taxis was implemented in Budapest. A registered taxi will be yellow in colour, must be able to accept payment by credit cards, have air conditioning and work to a standard set of tariffs. The fare to be paid is made up of three components:

- Initial fee: a fixed amount regardless the distance to be covered: HUF450
- Per unit charge for every kilometre of the trip: HUF280/km
- Idle time charge: HUF70/min

The fare to be paid is the sum of the initial fare, a per kilometre charge and a fee charged for idle time, should it apply. A tip is not included and it is customary to add 10% on to the total fare, if you are satisfied with the service provided.

The list of fares is visibly displayed on the back door of the cabs, and there should be a list of the conditions of carriage attached to the back of the front seats of the taxi.

Be warned however, the standard of quality for taxis in Budapest is not well policed and there are many unscrupulous taxi drivers who have their cars decked out to look like registered quality taxis but which in fact have meters that seem to have a mind of their own or might take unsuspecting tourists for a longer journey than they actually need. The old rule still applies therefore, always call a reputable taxi firm and wait for the taxi to arrive. Do not hail a taxi in the street, it's just too risky.

Expats all seem to have their favourite taxi firm. Even though since 2013, all registered, quality taxis are on the same tariff, this has only highlighted individual choice based on other factors like dispatchers who speak good English, the politeness of the drivers, the speed of response and so on. These are the main companies that expats tend to choose between:

AIRPORTS

Almost all expatriates' first experience of Hungary will be their arrival at Liszt Ferenc International Airport. This is a modern facility, though Hungary's aim of being a regional transport hub was somewhat damaged by the collapse of the national airline, Malév, a few years back. The slack has mostly been taken up by budget airlines like Ryan Air and Hungary's own Wizzair.

The airport is made up of terminals 2A and 2B. Terminal one was the original passenger terminal but is now only used for cargo traffic. Principally, terminal 2A handles routes to Schengen Zone countries and 2B handles flights to non-Schengen destinations. However, as is so often the case in Hungary, things aren't quite that simple so it's best to check from which terminal your flight departs from or arrives into.

Accessing Liszt Ferenc International Airport

- By taxi: Fő Taxi is the dedicated service provider for the airport. Their tariffs are the same as any other company but they have the best access to the airport and ordering a taxi is easy from the little booths outside the arrivals hall of both terminals. Taxis from other firms can be ordered as usual at the airport of course.
- By minibus: Like most airports, Budapest Airport also operates an Airport Minibus shuttle service. Passengers are taken to their previously agreed address by minibuses with 8 to 11 seats. Multi-lingual drivers know Budapest and its traffic very well, generally taking the simplest and fastest routes. The minibuses are in direct contact with the airport, meaning passengers can ask for information about their outward-bound flight on the way to the airport.
- By metro and bus: Budapest Airport is also relatively accessible by public transport. Passengers are taken by Bus 200E, a direct bus service to Kőbánya-Kispest M3 metro terminal. This service adjusts very well to passenger traffic at the airport. The buses are deliberately large, so large items of luggage can be transported. The service operates frequently and for long hours, providing a link between the city and the airport even after midnight and at early dawn. The blue Metro Line M3 can then get you to Deák Ferenc tér in the city centre. The entire journey takes around 45 minutes.

- By car: The airport can be reached in about 35 minutes from the city in good traffic conditions using what is known as the airport high-speed road. The M0 also serves the airport and can sometimes be better in terms of avoiding a journey through the centre of the city. Parking is plentiful at the airport, both for long and short-term stays. Be careful with parking outside the departure area of the terminal buildings though. Cars are charged after the first 5 minutes and rates are high, even by western European standards.

TIPPING

The following comments on tipping in Hungary are provided as guidelines, not rules. Tipping should naturally be related to the level of service you feel you have received.

Hotels: It is customary to tip certain individuals like the bellboy, concierge, housekeeper, doorman, waiter and cloakroom attendant. The usual tip might be HUF 500 or more as you see fit. In the restaurant a 10-12% tip is customary.

Restaurants: In some restaurants the service charge of 10-15% is included in your bill. If this is the case you certainly should not feel obliged to pay anything in addition. Where no service charge has been applied, a 10% tip is perfectly fair if you're happy with the service provided.

Theatres: A HUF 100-200 tip is usually given to the cloak room attendant.

Hairdresser, beautician: A 10% tip is customary.

GUIDEBOOKS FOR BUDAPEST AND HUNGARY:

The Rough Guide to Budapest is the ultimate guide to this fascinating city. The 20-page, full-colour section will inspire you on where to go and what to see, from the magnificent Parliament building to the atmospheric Jewish quarter. In addition, there are two 4-page inserts: Budapest's Baths' and Musical Traditions.

The new author picks section of all the city's finest hotels and restaurants, will help you decide on the best places to stay, eat and drink, for all budgets. There is extensive coverage of major new museums and attractions, including the Natural History Museum, the Palace of Arts complex and the Holocaust Memorial Centre. The guide also includes details on excursions to nearby Szentendre and Esztergom and comes complete with detailed maps for the entire city.

Budapest-Critical-Guide. The book leads you through several easy city walks, spanning architecture, music, varied markets, unusual sights and most important, restaurants and cafes where you can feel and taste the real spirit of Hungary, as opposed to expensive, poor quality places designed to part tourists from their money.

For a budget traveller looking for a genuine experience, this book is essential. For well-heeled tourists looking for quality, it's equally useful. András Török's insights into Hungarian character are funny and truthful, and his sense of humour makes the book worth reading even if you never visit Budapest.

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

- > You cannot buy self-raising flour in Hungary, but all you need to do is add baking powder [Sütő por] which comes in 10 gram packets. Add approximately 3 tsps (15 g) baking powder to 225 g plain flour.
- > Fresh yeast [Élesztő] is sold in wrapped, small square blocks wrapped in yellow paper and can be found on the cool shelf
- > Dried yeast [Sütő Élesztő] is sold in small red/orange sachets. A 7 g sachet is equivalent to a 20 g fresh yeast block to be used with approximately 500 g flour. When substituting dried yeast for fresh you will need 1 tbs (15 ml) dried yeast for 25 g fresh.
- > Party Cream – Use in place of butter in sandwiches. Be careful, as some of them are flavoured.
- > Double Cream is hard to track down in Budapest, but mascarpone cheese is a good substitute and is widely available.
- > Kefír – fermented milk products. Good on cornflakes.
- > Be careful with some fruit juice packets, the word rostos indicates that the juice contains fruit fibre.
- > Eggs are not always graded in Hungary. It is advisable to take your own egg boxes to markets or small local shops. Eggs in the large supermarkets may be graded.
